The Heathercliffe Hotel is a former Victorian Gentleman's residence and one of Cheshire's finest Country Houses. Formerly the home of John Paul Getty 1st and more recently the Queen of Yugoslavia, it is difficult to imagine a more imposing situation with ten acres of Private Park and woodland and unrivalled panoramic views across the Vale Royal of England. Comfortable lounges filled with books and antiques complement the informal relaxed atmosphere of the house and the restaurant boast one of the most comprehensive menus in the area.

The hotel offers a choice of meeting rooms to cater for every eventuality from small board meetings to top level conferences. The former Ballroom, with its half panelled walls, makes for the perfect setting for select presentations and private dinners. The hotel is also licensed to conduct civil wedding ceremonies.

The Heathercliffe Hotel is immediately adjacent to the North West Motorway network, some 5 minutes from Junction 12 of the M56, 30, minutes from both Manchester & Liverpool Airport and 10 minutes from the nearest West Coast main line station. The historic roman city of Chester is within easy driving distance.
